

I don't know if I have the facts rights, but I am led to believe that the FCC intends to supercede New Jersey's strict do not call law with a more lenient one. If this is true, I'm not sure what makes the FCC think it has a right to do so. I do understand that individual states must comply with the federal regulations/statutes and may further restrict them as deemed necessary by the particular state. Forcing a state to loosen restrictions is unconstitutional and dangerous.

At this moment, I don't know of anyone that hasn't been concerned, disturbed or even frightened by the FCC's actions in the past few years. I'm not sure if you're all trying to make more enemies for yourselves.

The constitution is what makes, or made, this country the best and strongest in the world. I urge you all to consider what you're trying to do. Be part of the solution and not the problem. Please do the right thing before this country isn't worth fighting/dying for.
